

Department Plant Science Potjiekos & Quiz Competition 2011

On Friday, 4 November 2011 the Department of Plant Science held its annual Potjiekos and Quiz competition. Our self-proclaimed potjiekos chefs started off early on Friday morning cooking up a storm. While the chefs were looking after the pots the rest of the Plant Science staff and postgraduate students joined in on the Potjiekos Quiz fun, where some brains got picked and some got fried... Music and song were also part of the fun where we discovered a few new idols. After an eventful quiz, the hungry tummies got treated to the delicious potjies served with rice and pot bread. The hard part was deciding whose potjie was the best.

I would like to thank everyone that participated and joined in on the day. It was great fun! Thank you to all the potjiekos teams for your effort & time.
